
Visier is dedicated to helping you see the truth with your data, NOW. To help organizations make the best decisions about their employees in a time of crisis, Visier is integrating data sources and automating analyses to help you react, respond and recover from the COVID-19 crisis.

Visier People includes data from the best credible source of globally available data for COVID-19. This means you can see which employees are in areas that are the most impacted by the virus, take actions to minimize risk to the health of your employees and manage business continuity challenges.

These capabilities are automatically included in the software, no creation of reports, metrics, and analytics content is required. To get you started quickly with the most critical people data, you can take advantage of Visier Rapid Insights: COVID-19 service offering.

Get answers to questions like:

- Which employees are in high-risk transmission locations?
- What levels of productivity can be expected during remote work?
- Which roles are critical to the business?
- How is the situation impacting employee sentiment?
- How do absences affect overall production?
- How effective are our emergency response measures?
- How do we best restructure the workforce?
- What areas should we invest in to support future growth?
- Which employees are best to lead new functions?

And create outcomes like:

- Knowing where your people are and keeping them safe.
- Making the best decisions for employee health and wellness as well as business continuity challenges.
- Making quick decisions based on accurate and available data, as your business adapts and responds to the crisis.
- Guiding your business out of a crisis and plan for long-term business continuity.

Learn more about how to use analytics during crisis management at: visier.com/crisis-management